

Vamos a Escuchar

Introducing our New Podcast Club First Session: Tuesday, March 17th at 7 pm

The Cambridge Spanish Centre is introducing a new podcasting group featuring the sounds of Radio Ambulante, a Spanish language podcast focussing on expressing stories from Latin America.

The sessions will consist of a group listening session of 45 minutes where we will play the podcast, and follow along with Spanish and English transcripts. There will then be a 45-minute conversation on the topics raised in the podcast, hosted by Adrianna, a native Spanish speaker from Venezuela!

This session is suitable for Intermediate and Advanced Spanish learners alike who are looking to practice real use of the language in a conversational setting. If you're interested, please come along!

First Session: Tuesday, March 17th, 7 pm - 8.30 pm

Venue: The Cambridge Spanish Centre, 60 Hills Road

Price: £5 (and FREE for those who take classes with us)

Drop us an email at info.cam.spanishcentre@gmail.com for more information or to reserve a place.

Meetup: New Date, New Room (but Same Great Bar!) Thursday, February 20th at 7.30 pm

Meetups are now back, and, following feedback from last month's attendees, we've secured the private room at The Emperor Latin Tapas Bar! This means there will be less background noise making it will be easier to do what we do best - Practicar Español!

Meetups are hosted by Dianelys, a native Spanish speaker from Cuba! Please make a note of our new Meetup time;

Meetups are now every third Thursday of the month. The next one is in two weeks on Thursday, February 20th at 7.30 pm.

Free Talk Friday, March 6th at 7 pm

The Cambridge Spanish Centre is hosting its first free talk of the year!

We've invited author Verónica Álvarez Córdova to talk about the challenges faced by female writers in Spain!

Verónica actually came last year too and delivered a very well attended lecture on this subject in Spanish. Now she's back and will deliver this lecture for an English audience.

The talk is free, open for all and will be in English. Seats are allocated to those who come first.

Cine Club Friday, March 13th at 7 pm

The next film night at the Cambridge Spanish Centre will be a screening 'Teresa: Crucificada por amar'.

The film is an adaptation of an autobiography by Teresa Willms Montt, a Chilean writer and poet.

As always, Film Club is free, subtitled in English, and all are welcome,

Well, almost all. This film is rated an '18', youngsters might want to steer clear!

Class Information

Book Club has been postponed by one week. Those wanting to attend the Book Club discussing El Misterio de la Cripta Embrujada, are invited to come to the session next week. It's at the same time and the same place; Cambridge Spanish Centre, Thursday 13th of February at 6 pm.
